

Kirsty McGregor - Deputy Editor - Drapers

BREXIT – THE TRUE COST TO THE CONSUMER

Kirsty McGregor is Deputy Editor at Drapers, working across the magazine, website and events. She joined Drapers in May 2014, having previously spent almost five years at social policy magazine Community Care.

Drapers is the unifying voice of the fashion industry. Last year, it surveyed more than 300 fashion businesses and stakeholders, including multiple retailers, independents, brands, the British Fashion Council, the UK Fashion & Textile Association, luxury body Walpole, and several law firms, to determine their most pressing concerns surrounding Brexit.

Since then, it has been covering every relevant Brexit announcement and policy discussion or white paper, and exploring what they mean for the industry.

