

We are the ASBCI. The Association of Suppliers to the British Clothing Industry brings together businesses from across the fashion and textile supply chain, with a membership that spans every sector from fibres and fabrics to retailing and aftercare.

We share knowledge. We promote the exchange of knowledge via conferences and seminars, technical visits, specialist publications, and networking opportunities. The ASBCI is concerned with new technology and new ideas, and has an effective representation of members' interests on the UK, European, and International standards committees.

We promote best practice. The ASBCI is a centre of technical and commercial excellence, where companies at the forefront of their sectors can discuss, share, and develop best practices, processes, and initiatives to benefit their organisations and the UK clothing supply chain as a whole.

We support the future. The ASBCI has many academic and student members and supports the next generation of UK fashion and textiles talent through the work of our student membership committee.

Conferences.

The ASBCI strives to give members the knowledge and expertise they need to meet the evolving challenges of today's fashion and textiles industry. The full-day annual conference has addressed topics such as:

- Sustainability
- UK manufacturing
- Brexit
- Size and fit
- The digital revolution

Members identify key issues, and the Association uses its vast network of contacts to address these. The ASBCI's success is built on the professional input of members, both in identifying the topics of importance to the industry and in supplying the expert speakers to share their knowledge.

For 2021, the annual conference moved to a digital-only format, ensuring members did not miss out on this important event.

Technical seminars.

Technical seminars deliver invaluable insight from industry experts in highly focused half-day events. They were introduced to the ASBCI's events schedule in 2018 and have covered topics such as:

- ZDHC and chemical management
- Colour management
- Risk assessments
- Garment costing

Organised by the ASBCI Technical Committee in collaboration with the Event Committee, the topics are nominated by members and often coincide with the development of technical handbooks.

The in-person events were replaced by remote webinars during the pandemic, including a free series of garment costing webinars and member events. Recordings of free ASBCI events are available to view on the ASBCI's video channel.

Technical visits.

The wealth of technical expertise in the ASBCI's diverse membership is one of our greatest strengths, as is our members' willingness to share knowledge, work together to identify technical issues, and pool their resources to resolve these.

Many members over the years have opened their doors to other members for technical visits organised by the ASBCI. Past technical visit locations have included:

- John Smedley
- James Heal
- Fashion-Enter (pictured)
- Advanced Supply Chain Group

ASBCI members also offer a broad range of free technical webinars for other members, as well as sharing their learning through our publications, ensuring that technical excellence through knowledge sharing could continue through the pandemic.

Technical books.

ASBCI members collaborate to produce technical handbooks. Written without commercial preference, many are recommended texts in trade and academic organisations worldwide.

Available in print and ebook editions, Garment Costing - everything you need to know about the cost of making clothes is the most recent in the ASBCI's catalogue of technical handbooks, which aim to provide clear, concise technical knowledge of the whole supply chain.

Other titles in the series.

- Apparel Size and Fit
- Caring for Clothes (aftercare)
- Joining Forces (fastenings)
- Make or Break (needles, threads, stitches)
- Tried and Tested (textile testing)
- The Book of Interlinings

In Association.

In Association is the ASBCI's quarterly member magazine and a key pillar of our knowledge sharing strategy. Each issue is packed with invaluable articles from members on key topics.

Yearbook.

Published annually, the ASBCI Yearbook is our annual round up of the association's activities, featuring event reviews, committee reports, and expert contributions from our partner organisations.

The next generation.

The ASBCI has long been one of the most active trade associations in the sector when it comes to connecting students with the fashion and textile industry, and our student offer is constantly evolving. Our key aim is to bridge the gap between academia and industry, providing support and opportunities to fashion and textile students to help them transition from education into the world of work. A combination of student forums, webinars, technical visits, and discounted attendance at ASBCI events provides an active and varied forum for students, educators, and industry to further their knowledge and network with each other.

Recognising talent.

The ASBCI organises and supports a number of awards to celebrate the UK's student talent, including the ASBCI Student Innovation Award, and provides exposure for numerous other industry awards such as the Golden Shears and the Fashanne Awards. And each year we run a competition for students at member institutions to feature their designs on the front cover of our annual Yearbook.

Work with us.

Collaboration with members has been a cornerstone of the ASBCI's activities since its inception, and particularly during the Covid-19 pandemic. Working with members, we have organised and contributed to numerous online events, delivering essential insights to help the industry adapt to unprecedented disruption. And we want to continue to do so.

Events from members, for members.

The strength of the ASBCI is in the knowledge of our members and their willingness to share, and we want to maximise this by organising a series of short events co-hosted by members, for members, on the topics that matter to you.

Industry roundtables.

In the same vein, we aim to facilitate online roundtable discussions between members with the aim of moving forward together on issues ranging from Brexit's impacts to supply chain transparency and chemical management.
